J. B. TOLBERT PERISHES IN BURNING HOTEL

All the people of Ada are sad today. When the message announcing the death of Mr. J. B. Tolbert was received this morning strong men would meet on the street and because of emotion could only grasp hands in silent sorrow. A special message received this morning conveyed the intelligence that J. B. Tolbert from Ada had been burned to death in a hotel fire in Fouché, Ark., Thursday night. Mr. Tolbert was engaged in shipping lumber from that point to his Ada yard. No particulars were learned. Mr. W. W. Sledge, business associate of deceased, and Mr. J. T. Conn left immediately over the Frisco for the scene of the tragedy. They will reach there at 2:25 o'clock Saturday morning and if possible start on the return with the body on the train which is due at 3:45 a. m. If this connection is made they will arrive in Ada with the remains Saturday evening; if not it will be Sunday morning. J. B. Tolbert was born in Jan. 1860 in Marshfield, Mo., but immediately with the outbreak of the war the family moved to Tennessee. His father was a Major in the 28th Regiment of the Confederate Cavalry and was killed at Shiloh. Mr. Tolbert with his widowed mother moved to the town of Western, Texas, in 1883, where he taught school for five years, it was here that he married Miss Mary Savage, the brave, sweet woman, whose heart is now so desolate. For 15 years the deceased was a valued citizen of Vernon, Texas. Mr. Tolbert came to Ada in July last year. The fact that he, in such a short time, won the high regard of all the people is evidence of his splendid manhood, a man, though modest and unassuming, with the utmost consideration always for the other man, yet during his short residence in Ada, there likely has not been an honor within the gift of his fellow citizens he could not have received. Standing as the active head of the Ada Commercial Club, being an elder in his church, and a faithful Christian worker everywhere, and holding exalted positions in Masonic work, impress all, to some extent, of the great loss to this community. The entire town mourns for this good and beloved citizen; and sorrows and sympathizes with his dear wife and two children, Benjamin and Rebecca. Credit is Due. For the successful convention of the A. H. T. A. in Ada, much credit is due Messrs. G. Duncan and J. K. Bottoms, of Ada. Especially valuable were their services in perfecting arrangements for the parade. They paid for the rigs used and rustled a neat sum for the band boys. Do not fail to see the elegant display of tailor-made hats at Singer & Meek Friday and Saturday. 184 2t

SWITCHMEN DEMAND MORE PAY AND SHORTER HOURS

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 26.—Every railroad in the country on which member's of the Switchmen Union of America are employed received yesterday from the organization a demand for increased wages and an eight hour day.

With the demands was also presented notification that unless satisfactory terms are reached a strike vote will be taken up by the union within two weeks.

A compromise of 2c an hour advance of wages offered by the railroads was rejected yesterday by committees representing the switchmen.

The men are holding out for the original demands submitted a month ago calling for a minimum scale of 42c an hour for fireman, 38c for helpers and an eight hour day.

Despite the failure of negotiations, both sides expressed the belief tonight there would be no strike.

The railroad managers are in a conciliatory mood and are willing to make reasonable concessions, they say, in the way of increased wages, but they will not consider the question of reducing working hours at this time.

UTES ON WARPATH KILL COWBOYS AND RAID HERDS

Sioux City, Iowa, Oct. 26.—After killing five cowboys and raiding a big herd of beef cattle the major portion of the rebellious Indians are surrounded by troops of the Tenth Cavalry from Robinson, Neb., in eastern Wyoming.

Unable to turn the Reds back on their trail to Utah, and fearing to make a too open demonstration of hostilities against the sullen Red Men, a courier was dispatched by the command for reinforcement. He arrived this morning at Fort Meade, S. D., and immediately six troops of the Sixth Cavalry were sent to the relief of the Fort Robinson Garrison.

Col. Rogers is in command of the reinforcements, which went through here about noon on a special train.

The distance to where the Utes are being detained is about 135 miles and about forty of it must be covered overland. That there will be fighting before the resolute runaways are forced back to their reservation appears to be the opinion of the soldiers.

The present size of the group of hostile Indians was not reported in advices sent to Fort Meade, but from earlier reports there are a hundred or more of the pick of the tribe.

COMMERCIAL CLUBS TO MAP OUT ARGUMENT

Muskogee, I. T., Oct. 25.—The presidents of the commercial clubs of the towns of Muskogee, Tulsa, South McAlester, Bartlesville and Ardmore are in receipt of letters from the president of the Ardmore Commercial Club, Lee Cruce, in which he urges them to have a meeting, preferably in Muskogee, at no distant date, for the purpose of mapping out a plan of argument to make before the Senatorial committee which will arrive in the Territory in November. Mr. Cruce suggests this for the reason that he deems it necessary that all who go before that committee in an effort to get favorable legislation for the Territory in Congress this winter should get together on the most vital questions that will be brought out before the committee. Among these topics will be the following: What disposition shall be made of the oil lands? What disposition shall be made of the coal lands? What disposition shall be made with reference to the lands exclusive of the homestead of the Indian allottee? What disposition shall be made of the Indian's homestead? The system of taxation for the support of the coming State Government.

In concluding his letter Mr. Cruce says: "Please advise me immediately if you will have a committee there at the time and place named. The coming of the Senate committee we believe here is one of the most important incidents in the near history of the new State. We should awake to our interests. Please see that a committee is there on the day named—a committee, if you please, of progressive citizens who are vitally interested in these affairs. Let us unite."

THEFT OF SEED COTTON

1,100 Pounds Stolen from Pleas Doss Wednesday Night

About 1,100 pounds of seed cotton, in sacks was stolen out of Pleas Doss' field just north of town Wednesday night.

The thieves carried the sacks 1-4 of a mile and emptied them in a wagon. A deputy marshal accompanied Mr. Doss Thursday to the field and blood hounds trailed the wagon about four miles when the trail was entirely lost.

IT WAS THE GREATEST CONVENTION YET HELD

At four o'clock Thursday afternoon the convention of the I. T. Division of the Anti-Horse Thief Association adjourned, after a notably successful session of two days in Ada.

With the departure of Friday morning trains few of the 500 delegates were left in the city.

Delegates were loud in praise of Ada and its entertainment of the convention. They were unanimous in the opinion that this was the most successful meeting, from every stand point, ever held by the body. The News came in for a liberal share of the visitors' compliments for courtesies extended. While the News did the best its limited facilities permitted, the next time the A. H. T. A's come they may expect still better and bigger courtesies; for by that time Ada will be bigger and The News will have grown commensurately.

The 500 delegates carry with them back to their 336 lodges and membership 12,000 strong, the very best wishes of the people of Ada.

SHOT FROM AMBUSH

Pauls Val Attorney Dangerously Wounded

Pauls Val, I. T., Oct. 25.—J. W. Hocker, put a candidate for delegate to the constitutional convention in the Purcell district, was shot from ambush on the road between Byers and Purcell about midnight and wounded in the head. It is not believed that his injuries will prove fatal.

Eloped

Sometime during the night Thursday Miss Hattie Woods, residing with her parents on Townsend ave., slipped out of the house clad in her night robe and eloped with one Will Hendrix. Hendrix had in waiting a buggy and the pair immediately drove to Roff, where the girl was arrested and brought back to Ada, clad in other than the light lingerie she left home in.

Hendrix has a wife living on a farm near Hockley.

WHAT WOULD BECOME OF THEM?

If the people would vote direct on issues what would become of Trust Kings? They would be shorn of their special privileges.

What would become of the corrupt lobbyists? They would have to go into a better business.

How about the corporation-ruled senate? The people would establish direct election of Senators.

Such being the case it is not to be wondered at that the republican nominees for congress are not pledging to work and vote for the re-establishment of the People's Rule. The democrats are and the voters will be the ruling power on election day. They can regain their sovereignty if they have the intelligence to vote right.

DIRECT VOTING

At the bottom of our political trouble is the fact that the voters do not rule. If they did they would at once terminate all special privileges, revise the tax laws, abolish child labor, institute compulsory education, and in other ways improve conditions.

The reason the voters do not rule is their power is completely delegated. There is no system whereby they can instruct representatives. They place a party machine in office and must accept whatever laws it sees fit to enact, except as the Supreme Court may intervene. But the judges are selected by the machine.

This final power in the few men in office was not the case until the rise of the convention system, some eighty years ago. Previous to that time the people instructed at will and by direct vote. This they did at town meetings in rural New England, and elsewhere at mass meetings.

To restore this privilege is the program of non-partisan organizations that are questioning congressional candidates. All the candidates have been asked to work and vote for a national system whereby the people may instruct at will by direct vote.

The democratic nominees have pledged for their platform declares for Majority Rule and they are not tied up with the trusts. The republican nominees have nearly all refused to pledge, thus demonstrating that they are the tools of the trusts.

The issue is clear cut. All voters who are intelligent and are not part of the machine will vote for the establishment of their own sovereignty. Why should they vote for a ruler when they themselves can become the ruling power?

THE TRUSTS CANDIDATES

In the past the republicans have evaded the trust issue. But a new system has been developed and they have been "freed."

The National Federation of People's Rule, representing organized farmers, organized wage-earners and business men, have questioned all the congressional candidates asking them: "If the voters will elect you, will you vote and work for a law that will establish a direct vote system for national issues? And will you obey instructions from your constituents when given by referendum vote?" That is the substance of the questions.

If a candidate really aims to represent the people he can say yes. But if he owes his nomination to the trusts and they are paying his campaign expenses he must say No.

The republican congressional candidates have nearly all refused to pledge while nearly all the democrats have pledged.

That tells the story. The trusts' candidates have been "spotted." The next thing is for the voters to deal with them on election day.

Has the Republican organ played its last tune?

The fire department has got to move again. It deserves better treatment than to be choused around from one livery stable to another. Let the city at once provide a commodious engine house. The efficiency of the department demands it.

Our fire department is growing to be a peach. A run of several blocks, hose laid and a strong fire extinguished in five minutes after alarm given—that's a record to be proud of.

This town needs a big bell for fire alarm purposes. The way things go here now one part of the town may burn up before the other part hears of the fire. Also such a bell at the city hall could be used as a curfew signal and for summons of various city officers.

In Case of Accident.

For fear that by oversight or accident some of the precincts may not receive their ballots, it has been thought best to quote the law regarding such condition, so that in case any precinct does not receive the ballots for any cause, the election officials may provide for the same, the following law is quoted: "If by any accident or casualty the ballots delivered to any clerk, inspector or other messenger shall be lost or destroyed, it shall be the duty of such person in custody to report the loss at once to the board of election commissioners from which the same were obtained, and make affidavit of the circumstances of the loss, whereupon such board shall at once resupply such person. In case such person in custody of said ballots fails or refuses to report and make proof of loss, any qualified elector may do so, and thereupon such board shall at once send a new supply by special messenger as provided in other cases. In case, for any reason, there shall be found no ballots or other necessary means or contrivance for voting at the opening of the polls, it shall be the duty of the election board to secure the same as speedily as possible, and if necessary, such board may have ballots printed: Provided, however, That such ballots shall conform as nearly as possible to the genuine ballots and the printing and care of the same shall be under the provisions and penalties as the printing and care of the other ballots prescribed in this Act."

THE fire department has got to move again. It deserves better treatment than to be choused around from one livery stable to another. Let the city at once provide a commodious engine house. The efficiency of the department demands it.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the controller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

FURMAN SPEAKS.

Hon. H. M. Furman, accompanied by Carlton Weaver, the Democratic nominee for delegate from the 87th Constitutional District, addressed good crowds at Hart, McGee and Oakman on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights of this week.

Mr. Furman makes it plain that republican conduct in the Indian Territory has been most unjust to the farmer and his interests. He asks: "What has the republican party done for you in this country?" He makes it vivid that when the farmer in the Indian Territory supports the republican, he is endorsing the conditions that have and do now exist here.

Carlton Weaver is ably supporting his candidacy and the Democratic platform adopted by the Convention that nominated him. He compares the principles of the two parties, and shows that the republican platform is silent upon many issues absolutely essential to good government, happy homes and clean politics.

SPLENDID WORK

Fire Department Makes Fast Run and Puts Out Residence Fire

About 11 o'clock Friday morning a defective flue caused a fire in the two-room dwelling of Mrs. Howard on West 9th street. When discovered the fire had made alarming headway, eating into the roof and interior above the ceiling.

The fire department made a record-breaking response to the alarm, fastening the hose to the oil mill plug and extinguishing the fire in five minutes. Nothing was damaged below the ceiling.

The house was occupied by Mr. Lowry, a barber at Mr. Kaisers' shop. None of his effects were damaged further than that occasioned by their hurried removal.

Building of the Popular Song

By HARRY WILLIAMS.
Author of "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree."

being involved will fail. One must be sure to have some little love theme running through the story, because the popular music business, to a great extent, is kept alive by the young women from 15 to 25 years of age.

Make the verse and chorus—particularly the chorus—as short as possible. Be most careful to have the melody and the arrangement set down in the simplest manner, so that any one with even a limited knowledge of music, can play it. One difficult strain in a song is very apt to spoil the whole.

In the arrangement of the music, the author of a popular song must restrict himself to not more than one octave and one note. This is for the benefit of the singer who is to render it on the stage. In the writing of instrumental music, marches, waltzes, and the like, a composer may go as far as two octaves. Having in mind the limitations of the ordinary singer in vaudeville, the going beyond the octave and one note is dangerous.

It is to the performer who sings the song from the stage, and the young girl who hears it played over by the "demonstrator" in the department store, that the author must look for the success of his effort. The young girl aids the sale of the song because the romanticism of her nature is touched by the sentiment. If there is no sentiment in the song, she is not moved, and she doesn't buy. This is the reason the tender ballads are infinitely more successful as sellers than the comic songs which raise a laugh in a theater.

No one can tell from the mere reading over of a song whether or not it is destined to be a hit. If any one could, he could make $1,000 an hour by simply picking out the wheat from the chaff, turning the accepted product over to a music publisher, and then watching the effect on the public. The song has to be published and tried out before the great audience of the public before a verdict can be rendered. In this respect the popular song is on a par with the theatrical production. If managers at rehearsals could tell what would please, no failures would ever be recorded.

Great Estates Should Be Taxed

By CHARLES F. PIDGIN,
Chief of Bureau of Statistics of Labor.

tribute to the public treasury. There is a suggestion of interest and value in that a proportional income tax should be established which would operate to draw from the possessors of great fortunes a regular percentage of their riches. There is a wide gulf between unnecessary wealth and inexcusable poverty, and it should be lessened, rather than increased.

In the accumulation of great wealth the powers of the individual must be considered as meriting reward. But after a business of increasing profit has been once established, the owner's salesmen and buyers or other agents must be credited with a very large, and, indeed, a preponderant share in the success of the enterprise.

Yet it is not the talents or powers of the owner or of his agents which primarily are the reasons for success. In the case of a great merchant he profits enormously by his environment. If, for example, he is situated in a community whose easily accessible limits include a population of 2,000,000, every purchaser and every resident whose demands he supplies are contributing proportionally to his success. He is the beneficiary of his environment, just as a real estate owner is, and the poorest person in the community who buys his wares has some contributory share in his success.

Where a person of this description has acquired a great fortune, that estate upon his death should be taxed according to some proportional plan, and the proceeds should go to form a state fund for the establishment and maintenance of old-age pensions for the superannuated industrial soldiers who have served their country as directly and distinctly as if they had gone to war and shot down some numbers of the enemy.

There is no good reason why there should be almshouses in any community which numbers millionaires and multimillionaires among its citizens. How much of such wealth is unnecessary to the well-being or gratification of its possessors, and in the presence of such possessions how much of poverty is inexcusable?

In writing a "popular song," the budding author would do well to be guided by a few easily remembered rules. In the first place, he must use the most simple words and the most ordinary phrases. Anything which has the appearance of being involved will fail. One must be sure to have some little love theme running through the story, because the popular music business, to a great extent, is kept alive by the young women from 15 to 25 years of age.

Make the verse and chorus—particularly the chorus—as short as possible. Be most careful to have the melody and the arrangement set down in the simplest manner, so that any one with even a limited knowledge of music, can play it. One difficult strain in a song is very apt to spoil the whole.

If managers at rehearsals could tell what would please, no failures would ever be recorded.

There is a widespread opinion that great wealth should be taxed much more heavily and directly than is done under the prevailing system. If the living rich are not subjected to such taxation, the estates after death should be made to contribute to the public treasury.

In the accumulation of great wealth the powers of the individual must be considered as meriting reward. The tan craze, so prevalent last year, is abating—at least among the automobile set. A fine coat of tan bespeaks a love of athletics, and it makes one look healthy. But now the fair ones are discovering that too long exposure to a summer sun rather coarsens the skin. Light colored chiffon veils are, therefore, this season en vogue.

The change, from a beauty viewpoint, is not wholly a bad one; and yet the face may be too assiduously protected as well as too much exposed. Nothing more beautifies the complexion than judicious exposure to sunlight and fresh air.

Sunbaths are extremely beneficial to the skin; the first redden it, and then it peels, disclosing the new, delicate membrane underneath. But there is a mean in the duration of sunbaths beyond which one should not go. Constant exposure to a torrid sun destroys the skin's natural sensibility, coarsens and roughens it, and by causing the obstruction and rupture of its capillary arteries, imparts to it the streaky, ruddy, weather-beaten appearance that we see in the countenances of most mariners.

And friction has more than a superficial effect on the skin. By bringing blood to the surface it enlarges the capillaries, which, as I have said, the arteries supply to the derma, and this permanently heightens the skin's color. Again, the increased flow of blood effects a more thorough destruction of fat; whence results the peripheral firmness that is characteristic of youth. While massage has somewhat the same effect, it is not so pronounced as when it is combined with friction.

COLORADO GIRL INSISTS SHE MADE JOURNEY.

DEVIL COMES IN WINDOW

Young Woman Declares She Was Cast Into Burning Lake—Is an Enthusiastic Member of a Strange Sect.

Colorado Springs, Col.—A strange religious sect which has been holding its meetings in a tenement house on the outskirts of this city, has among its regular attendants a Miss Hamilton, who says her first name must not be revealed until the Lord gives permission. She is strikingly handsome and seems to be completely under the influence of the leaders of the sect.

One morning recently persons living in the vicinity where the meetings are held were disturbed and frightened by the cries, as if some one were in agony, that came from the place and they sent in a hurry call for the police.

When the officers arrived on the scene they were ushered into a darkened room, where prostrate on the floor lay the beautiful girl, while the handful of men and women around here were raising their hands in supplication and loudly calling for the delivery of her soul from the nether regions.

"It is hot; I am burning up!" cried the girl. "I can't get out of this!" And the expression on her face depicted terror. The police left the place without making any arrests. The next morning Miss Hamilton was visited by a reporter.

"Yes," said Miss Hamilton, "I went through hell last night and saw heaven. They tell me I was two hours and a half in hell, but it seemed to me an interminable time. Three years ago I became possessed of the devil. Try as I would I could not shake off his influence. He had me so that I could not even kneel. Last night I went to the meeting. It was the same way. The devil still had me, and for a long time I was helpless.

"I went out from the meeting room into a dark room by myself and I had hardly entered when I saw the devil come through the window. Yes, he was in the flesh, like a man. He had horns, but his claws were the most terrible feature, and I felt myself in his grasp. My sufferings were too terrible to relate. I felt that I was smothering and I struggled to get out of the room.

"When I opened the door leading into the other room I fell flat upon my face exhausted. Then it was that the devil cast me into a lake of fire. Oh, yes, it was all real. I felt the pain and it seemed that I should never come out of the terrible place. I called on God, but I had little hope that He would come to my rescue.

"I was not conscious of any one's presence in the room or anything of this world. It seemed that I was in a bottomless pit, seething in a molten mass, and all about me was fiery vapor. Only the devil was there. I felt that he was crushing me while I was being consumed in the flames.

"Suddenly a vista seemed to open. I saw a strange light. Gradually I became enveloped in it and then it was that I saw the mansions in the skies. They are much the same as the mansions and buildings of a large city. I saw Jesus sitting on a throne and he said: 'Come unto me.' There were angels and they were playing on harps and singing beautiful songs.

"The next thing I knew I seemed to waken and again I felt my presence on earth and saw the people standing over me in the room. I knew that I was saved. I have been cleansed in the blood of Christ."

It was three o'clock in the morning when the girl came out of her trance. At noon of the next day she seemed to be in a state of collapse.

When requested to give her first name the girl said that she would have to ask the consent of the Lord and for nearly a half hour prayed that the Redeemer enlighten her. "The Lord failed to answer," she said, "and until he gives his permission I must not."

JUSTICE HORSEWHIPPED BY GIRL BEFORE CROWD

Latter Takes Revenge Because He Dismissed Case—People Cheer Young Woman's Act.

Washington.—With the town constable looking on and surrounded by a score or more of men and women who urged her on, Miss Lucy Grove, of Vienna, Va., horsewhipped August Hening, a justice of the peace of that place.

When the young woman sprang from the post office doorway and began lashing the magistrate over the head and body with a rawhide whip, which was partially constructed of fine copper wire, a crowd of men and women en suddenly appeared on the scene and cheered the girl.

As she rained blow after blow upon the man's face and shoulders the men shouted and flung their hats in the air, while the women screamed in their excitement.

The girl was soon overpowered by Hening and before the crowd could interfere in the final scuffle the girl was thrown to the ground.

Miss Grove's left arm was dislocated.

The whole affair, it is said, was the result of a decision rendered against the young woman last week.

It is asserted that Miss Grove had a man arrested for assaulting her and she declares Hening, before whom the case was tried, deliberately dismissed the case. Miss Grove was not arrested.

BOYS DYNAMITE SCHOOLHOUSE. Wanted Another Month of Vacation But Didn't Get It.

Trenton, N. J.—Vacation has not been long enough for the boys of the Prospect Hill school, two miles from Newton, Pa., so they blew up the schoolhouse with dynamite. The building was badly damaged, but temporary quarters were obtained and the school was opened despite the crime.

The boys had asked the school board for a longer vacation. This request, of course, was refused. Then they decided to burn the schoolhouse. Later they conceived the idea of blowing it up, as they did, on the night before the opening of the school term. They got dynamite in a quarry close by and waited until there was no one about to explode it.

The explosion shook the little settlement of Prospect Hill. Volunteer firemen formed a bucket brigade to extinguish the flames which followed the explosion.

The boys make no denial of their guilt. They say that if the month of September had been added to their vacation they would have been satisfied.

The board of education is in a quandary as to what to do with the youths. All of them are attending school in the temporary quarters, much to their chagrin.

Bees Hold Up Railway Station.

London.—A large parcel dropped on the platform of Burgess Hill station, Sussex, burst open, and out buzzed a swarm of bees. The parcel contained a hive. In spite of the stationmaster's order to pack the bees up again none of the staff would approach. At length a forlorn hope, consisting of an aged porter, was induced by the offer of a shilling to attack the parcel, but when the bees, possibly mistaking him for a new kind of flower, hummed around him he dropped it and ran. The bees held the platform till the evening, when they returned to the hive. Then the parcel was closed and sent on to its destination.

Kept Cow in a Kitchen.

Cleveland.—Domestic arrangements in the kitchen of Jacob Metz were rudely disturbed by Health Officer Webster, who stepped in unannounced. At one end of the table, says Webster, Mrs. Metz, with her sleeves rolled up, was kneading the week's supply of bread. At the other end of the table "Sukey," the family cow, was munching away at a dainty luncheon of green cucumbers.

"Heavens!" cried Webster.

"What of it?" asked Mrs. Metz.

Webster had Metz arrested for violating the health ordinance by keeping the cow in the kitchen. Jacob was discharged.

At the National Capital

Interesting Gossip by Our Washington Correspondent—People's Lobby to Be Established—Senator Smoot Will Urge Reestablishment of the Army Canteen.

WASHINGTON.—Everybody except the people seems to have a lobby whenever any important interest is affected by legislation. Now it is proposed to locate here a bureau, headed and managed by men of unquestionable character and repute, which shall watch legislation with only the public interest in mind, analyze it, report on it, publish the facts about it, and employ such proper means as may be required to induce congress to legislate for the popular interest rather than for special interests.

The lobby was proposed originally by Henry Beach Needham, of this city, and has been taken up by such men as Mark Twain, Lincoln Steffens, Benjamin Ide Wheeler and William Allen White. The People's lobby will have facilities for watching and studying legislation. Competent lawyers will examine and ascertain what the "jokers" are in legislation. Skilled observers will keep in touch with the operations of lobbying representatives of "interests." The results of all these inquiries will be given to the public. Publicity is to be the one weapon of the organization. The managers believe it is the most effective weapon, and potent to accomplish all the results.

The lobby will give the people opportunity to be heard, if its plans prove its practicability. It isn't going to undertake anything sensational or startling. It will be a sort of watchdog of popular interests. It will not get tired when popular interest wanes; it will keep on at its work even when there is not at the White House a president with the disposition to wring things from congress.

This is in outline the plan of the people's lobby. The letters which have been received, following the first announcement of the plan, indicate a notable interest in the movement. Ex-Gov. Garvan, of Rhode Island; State Senator Colby, of New Jersey; Gov. Deneen, of Illinois; Winston Churchill, of New Hampshire, are among those who sent appreciative responses to the appeal for cooperation and support.

SMOOT TO FIGHT FOR CANTEEN.

While the senate is deciding whether Senator Smoot, of Utah, shall retain his seat in that body the senator himself will be urging upon his colleagues the passage of a bill providing for the reestablishment of the army canteen, which he intends to introduce early next December.

"I have little reputation to lose among the women of the country," the senator says, "so it seems that I may as well be the champion of what each and every representative in congress believes should be done. I think they all agree with the officers of the army that the anti-canteen law is unwise. But because of public sentiment they all are afraid to come out and urge its repeal."

Any well defined effort to secure the repeal of the anti-canteen law is certain to bring down upon congress an avalanche of protests from the women of the country. It was the women who compelled the abolition of the canteen, and it is woman's influence that has deterred the congressmen from doing anything in the direction of its restitution as recommended by army officers.

POLITICS MAY SPLIT LABOR LEADERS.

Officials of the American Federation of Labor believe that after election a distinct breach will be opened between President Samuel Gompers and John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers, and vice president of the Federation.

Friction between them that will develop into a breach is regarded as inevitable for the reason that Gompers is jealous of the growth of Mitchell as a political factor. Mitchell adheres to the Roosevelt school of politics, while Gompers is with the other faction.

There is no question among neutral members of the official body of the Federation but that Gompers' activity in this campaign is due to the fact that Mitchell made a success of his fight in behalf of Roosevelt. Mitchell's prominence in the labor field made him the man among organized labor most consulted by President Roosevelt and other public men. Although Gompers was the head of the organization, he was seldom consulted. It was always Mitchell, the vice president, who was called in to express the views of the Federation. He was called to the White House, took lunch there, and on one occasion was a dinner guest. Gompers, so it is said, saw his opportunity to come to the front in this congressional campaign by bringing forward the fact that congress had ignored the recommendation of the Federation, while the president and leaders in congress had given ear to Mitchell. That fact, it is believed, inspired the sudden activity with respect to the eight-hour law and the anti-injunction bills last spring.

Mitchell is so closely identified with the Republican organization that activity on his part would have brought him into conflict with many of his closest friends.

HUMORS OF RURAL DELIVERY SERVICE.

The establishment of new rural free delivery routes in various sections of the country is frequently attended with laughable incidents, and the narration of these tales from real life has been known to afford material for more than one after-dinner speaker. One such story has been related by members of a party of Washingtonians recently returned from the environs of Bucksport, Me., and those responsible for telling the incident claim now to be in full understanding of the reason for Denman Thompson choosing his characters for "The Old Homestead" from this old-fashioned region in the shade of Mount Katahdin. It seems that a rural free delivery system was recently started with Bucksport as the center, and on one of the routes a member of the "Smith" family was among the first to put out a receptacle for his mail. The box happened to be a beehive, and Mr. Smith cut a slit in the top for letters and papers and nailed the whole on the upper step of an old stepladder. On the face of the "letter box" he inscribed his name in this fashion: "B. S. Smith"—and so stood ready to receive communications from his friends. Unfortunately it happened that Mr. B. Smith had borrowed the beehive from a neighbor some two years before, and it goes without saying that the owner was not slow in claiming his property when it thus came to light. Now "B. S. Smith" is without a mail box, but it is stated on good authority that he has never been known to receive a piece of mail oftener than once in six months, and that only an advertising circular.

WIPING OUT THE GOVERNMENT DEFICIT.

Probably the happiest man among the department officials in Washington at this time is Assistant Secretary James B. Reynolds of the treasury. Mr. Reynolds is a Massachusetts man, and his duties as assistant secretary give him especial charge of the customs branch of the government. Under the direction of Mr. Reynolds, the customs revenues are collected, and the intricate details of the operations of the tariff law are directed, in order to bring the greatest possible returns and safeguard the public interest, as well as domestic industries, from the attacks of ingenious and ambitious foreign traders.

Assistant Secretary Reynolds is of the opinion that his branch of the government is pretty nearly the whole thing at this time. The much abused tariff law, under the direction of the customs experts, is producing revenues sufficient to save the nation from a deficit. Last year the treasury balance on the right side of the ledger was a few millions, and this result was achieved following a year in which the balance on the wrong side of the ledger was upward of $30,000,000. Starting with the present fiscal year, a deficit of $6,000,000 or $7,000,000 showed up within a month as a result of an extraordinary draft to pay congressional appropriations. This deficit has already been practically wiped out and the indications are that Uncle Sam will have a snug balance at the end of the present fiscal year.

It is the customs business that is producing these desirable results. The duties upon imported commodities have brought into the treasury within a little more than two months $10,000,000 more than came in during the same period a year ago. This is the work of Assistant Secretary Reynolds. He is able to make other receipts of the government have increased only a few millions of dollars, a handsome showing is made by the customs branch.
